

LITERACY WORKSHEET

Reading for Meaning

Getting Ready to go to the Bush

Robert ran in to his house all excited. He told his father that he just saw a flock of _____ fly over his house. His father said it was a good sign and they should start preparing for their annual _____ to the Bush. It was April, and the river was still frozen over with _____. So, Robert and his father decided to use their _____ to pull the sled full of supplies.

Robert started loading the sled with some of the supplies they would need. Snowmobiles cannot run without gas, so he found four red gas _____ and filled them up at the local gas bar. Next, they would need something to eat, so Robert began packing some _____. He likes sandwiched, so he packed lots of _____. Finally, they gathered their _____ and ammunition and tied everything down on the sled.

The trip to the bush _____ would take four hours. After carefully checking the thickness of the ice on the _____, Robert and his father crossed the river. Once on the other shore, they quickly found the trail that would take them to the camp. When they arrived at the camp, they went inside and started a _____ in the stove to warm up the cabin. Then they began unloading their supplies. Robert loved his time in the Bush with his father.

Word List

river

fire

geese

camp

cans

ice

bread

trip

snowmobile

food

guns

